ISSB to start projects about risks and opportunities related to nature and human capital

The International Sustainability Standards Board (ISSB) is launching research projects to explore disclosure requirements regarding risks and opportunities related to nature and human capital. This initiative, guided by prior consultations, aims to build upon existing frameworks like the SASB Standards and the CDSB guidance. The research will focus on how these risks and opportunities could potentially affect a company's future prospects, with the ultimate goal of enhancing the global baseline of sustainability-related financial disclosures.

FCA confirms anti-greenwashing guidance and proposes extending sustainability framework

The UK's Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) has established a comprehensive sustainability disclosure framework to combat greenwashing, featuring an anti-greenwashing rule and four distinct sustainability labels: "Sustainability Impact," "Sustainability Focus," "Sustainability Improvers," and "Sustainability Mixed Goals." These initiatives aim to ensure that financial products' sustainability claims are substantiated, clear, and non-misleading, with the framework set to be phased in starting in 2024. This regulation is part of a broader effort to enhance transparency and accountability in sustainable finance.

Nature Action 100 unveils benchmark indicators for assessing corporate ambition and action on nature

The Company Benchmark, introduced by Nature Action 100, is designed to evaluate how well companies are addressing issues related to nature and biodiversity. It consists of a structured set of criteria that cover six key areas: Ambition, Assessment, Targets, Implementation, Governance, and Engagement, each broken down further into sub-indicators and metrics. This initiative aims to guide and support investors in making informed decisions by providing a clear framework for understanding corporate contributions towards reversing biodiversity loss by 2030. The benchmark was developed collaboratively with inputs from global investors and is aligned with existing nature-related financial disclosure frameworks.

Decarbonization Partners closes decarbonization-focused fund with S$1.9bn

At the close of its first fund dedicated to investing in decarbonization technologies, investment platform Decarbonization Partners—co-founded by global asset manager BlackRock and Singapore's Temasek Investment Company—raised US$1.4 billion (S$1.9 billion), exceeding its initial goal of US$1 billion. According to a news release issued by the joint venture on April 25, over 30 institutional investors from 18 countries participated in the late-stage venture capital and early-growth private equity fund.
